

Rezoning Frequently Asked Questions

Q. What is zoning?

A. Zoning regulates the use and development of property in the city through bylaws approved by City Council. Zoning is informed by Council policies, initiatives, or directions based on goals for the future of the city and its neighbourhoods.

Q. What does zoning regulate?

A. Zoning regulates the use of a site (retail, residential, office, etc.) and the characteristics of buildings on a site (height, floor area and other physical aspects of the development).

Q. Who makes a decision on rezoning?

A. City Council makes the final decision on whether to approve, modify, or refuse a rezoning application. City staff review applications and make a recommendation to City Council.

Q. How do you change zoning?

A. A property owner or developer/architect working on behalf of a property owner will make an application to rezone a site. A developer starts the process with an enquiry to the City.

Staff give the applicant advice, but no formal position is provided. After an application is received, Rezoning Centre staff seek input from various City departments, the public, and advisory groups of Council such as the Urban Design Panel, Vancouver Heritage Commission, etc.

The application is then evaluated by Planning staff, taking into consideration the input received from the various departments, the public and advisory groups. A report is written which provides a comprehensive analysis of the application and a recommendation that it be referred to a public hearing.

Council then hears from the public and makes its decision on the application. The final step for Council is enactment of the zoning bylaw. This occurs after the applicant has fulfilled required bylaw conditions.
