1. Introductions and Roundtable Check-ins

The Co-Vice-Chair welcomed members, and Committee Liaisons introduced themselves. Sandra Singh, General Manager of Arts, Culture and Community Services, Mary Clare Zak, Managing Director of Social Policy and Projects Division, and Sergeant Valerie Spicer, Vancouver Police Department were also present and introduced themselves.

2. Anti-Racism and Reconciliation Efforts Updates

The Committee provided an update on their anti-racism and reconciliation efforts, which included media responses, discussions with liaisons, a conversation with the Mayor's Office, and their three action goals. Further feedback from Committee members to the Staff Liaisons followed. Patty Hambler provided a link to the UBC Indigenous Strategic Plan 2020.

The Staff Liaisons shared their responses to the letter, and thanked the Committee for it. The General Manager of Arts, Culture and Community Services provided comments on the Committee's letter requests. They will also provide feedback to City staff on the Urban Indigenous Training program. The Managing Director of Social Policy and Projects Division, acknowledged further discussions with the Committee and local First Nations is needed.

3. Liaison Updates

Sergeant Valerie Spicer, Vancouver Police Department (VPD), provided comments on the Anti-Racism and Reconciliation Efforts by the City of Vancouver letter, the Vancouver Police Department's commitment to reconciliation, and the VPD's ongoing Indigenous awareness training.

Megan Langley, Vancouver Public Library (VPL), shared the following public library updates:

- Vancouver Public Library branches are continually re-opening, with most locations accessing computers, borrowing and returning materials, and picking up holds. Takeout service is being offered at select locations as well. Services are being broadened across the city;
- The Carnegie Community Centre is working to re-open;
- Connection to Kith and Kin: Indigenous Ancestry Search will soon restart in an online version;
- Virtual service for Indigenous elders is being reviewed; and
- VPL has received Federal funding for eight "digital initiatives" internships that prioritize Black, Indigenous, and People of Color (BIPOC) youth. Each internship will be four months. VPL is currently writing job descriptions for these positions and will be welcoming the interns in December 2020.
