Purpose of this memo

This memo highlights the monthly Labour Force Survey (LFS) data published by Statistics Canada released on November 6th, 2020 for the reference period of October 11th to October 17th. The LFS provides estimates for the unemployment rate and employment totals by industry and occupation on a monthly basis. The information presented in this memo provides a snapshot of the impact COVID-19 has had on Vancouver's labour force and economy in the period of time since the Pandemic began. Staff in Planning, Urban Design and Sustainability will provide an updated monthly memo as new data is released. This information is meant to be viewed in conjunction with other socio-economic and community statistics to form a cohesive picture of the City's current state and assist with recovery and resilience planning. This information will be posted to the City website and shared with the business community.

Important notes about the data

The statistics presented in this memo are for the Metro Vancouver region as the Census Metropolitan Area (CMA) is the smallest geography level available for LFS data tables published by Statistics Canada. LFS data for the city of Vancouver is not readily available on a monthly basis. Throughout this memo, the term "Vancouver" refers to the Vancouver CMA. The LFS data used to create the statistics presented in this report are not seasonally adjusted¹.

Changes in employment totals and unemployment rate

Employment in Vancouver increased from 1,356,000 in September to 1,413,600 in October for a gain of 57,600 (4.2%) jobs. Since September, the unemployment rate decreased by -1.4 percentage points to 7.5% in Metro Vancouver. In October, the region had -47,800 (-3.3%) less employed workers than in February. This is a significant improvement in job losses, which peaked in April where a total loss of 251,200 (-17.2%) employed workers was recorded compared to February. Nationally, the unemployment rate decreased by 0.1 percentage points between September and September and is now 8.9%.

The overall increase in employed workers from May to October reflects the gradual easing of public health restrictions and other measures, including allowing non-essential businesses to re-open. A number of major orders related to the COVID-19 pandemic issued by various levels of government were active during this reference week (October 11th to October 17th). Please see Figure 7 for a full list of announcements and orders made since the previous reference period. Appendix A shows all prior announcements and orders starting on March 12th. The next labour force survey release will be on December 4th (for the reference week of November 8th to November 14th).

Additional Data Sources: Employment Lands and Economy Review

The Employment Lands and Economy Review team has also prepared 30 fact sheets using a variety of data sources detailing the economic structure of the city of Vancouver and the role of the city within the regional economy. These fact sheets are available on the City's website here: <https://vancouver.ca/employment-lands>.

City of Vancouver business support webpage

On Friday, April 3rd, City staff established the COVID-19 Business Communications and Support Office (BCSO) to assist local businesses at this critical time. The office is a single point of contact for Vancouver's local business owners to get information from the City of Vancouver regarding business support programs, to learn what City-run business services are currently available, and to make suggestions to the City concerning business and the economy. The webpage is available here: <https://vancouver.ca/home-property-development/covid-19-coronavirus-support-for-local-businesses.aspx>.

Staff in the City-Wide & Regional Planning division of the Planning, Urban Design and Sustainability department is supporting the BCSO, ensuring that information for business remains current and accessible, responding directly to questions by e-mail as well as assisting with developing resources for responding to concerns raised by local business operators.

If you have any questions or require further information, please contact me or Chris Robertson, Assistant Director, City-Wide & Regional Planning, at 604-873-7684 or chris.robertson@vancouver.ca.
