Please join me in welcoming Greg Conlan, to the City of Vancouver as Corporate Security Manager. He brings a tremendous amount of expertise in security management, department organizational management, and fiscal resource management. We are excited he is joining our team.

Greg comes to us with over 26 years managing and leading large complex safety and security programs in both the public and private sectors. His professional expertise includes risk and threat analysis, emergency management, incident response and investigations, project management, physical and occupational security /safety, workplace violence assessment and management, critical infrastructure protection and the provision of ongoing training and engagement for front line personnel. He has extensive human and fiscal resource management expertise working in highly regulated industries and organizations.

For the past three years Greg has been working at Securiguard Services as the Aviation Security Director. Greg has been responsible for the oversight of all Vancouver International Airport and Abbotsford International Airport safety and security operations within the portfolio, including the training and operational management of both YVR's and YXX's Security Team and the Airside Safety Escort Division. His role was accountable for the financial and human resources of 250 personnel as well as the overall service delivery and performance standards set forth in the security contracts.

Before the Aviation Sector, Greg was the Director of Operations for Vancouver Coastal Health Authority - Protective Services. Greg was accountable for the development, coordination and management of protection and security services that includes the planning, implementation and evaluation of related physical, financial and human resources for security services, and the negotiation and management of security contracts for three major health organizations in the Lower Mainland area of British Columbia.

Greg will be starting in his position on Monday, April 4th.

Sincerely,
Bill Aujla
