We have a solution that ensures continuity of childcare services at the Phil Bouvier Centre.

City staff, the Ministry, Central City Foundation, and Vancouver Native Health identified the need for a couple of months of interim financial support necessary to bridge the childcare operations until September when new Ministry programs come into force that stabilizes the childcare.

Central City Foundation has agreed to fund half of the difference and City staff have recommended a grant in the 2018 Social Grants report (comes to Council next week) for the other half.

VNH will be sending a communication out to parents today to let them know they are close to resolving their situation and of their intent to keep the childcare open.
