Dear Mayor and Council,

The City of Vancouver's Archives is pleased to announce that early Council videos which used to be on vancouver.ca are now discoverable through the Archives' online database. This work provides a permanent home for the videos as well as a cost-effective method to make the records available to the public online. The first part of the post describes the descriptive and preservation work staff completed to make the videos available, and the second part provides some quick tips on how to find a video. For further information please see: <https://www.vancouverarchives.ca/2022/05/25/lets-watch-some-council-meetings/>

The team has run about 1/3 of the video files through our preservation system, with more coming online each week. If you're searching for a specific record and are unable to locate the file, please contact the Archives at archives@vancouver.ca.

Best,
Paul
