

Capital Plan borrowing questions

Voters will vote on three questions asking whether the City should borrow funds for some of the major projects outlined in the 2027-2030 Capital Plan.

A Capital Plan is a four-year investment plan that helps maintain, renew, and upgrade the infrastructure and amenities people rely on every day. The 2027-2030 Capital Plan proposes $3.5 billion in capital investments. A portion of the funding—$790 million out of $3.5 billion—is proposed to come from borrowing that requires voter approval.

The ballot will have three “yes” or “no” questions on whether the City should borrow $790 million to help pay for projects in the Capital Plan. If a majority of voters vote yes, then City Council can borrow the funds for these projects.

The above represents a summary of the Capital Plan borrowing questions on the ballot and is provided for information and convenience only. It is not a direct translation of the questions, and the official questions as printed on the ballots are the authoritative versions.

Plebiscite questions

Council is seeking the opinion of voters on two plebiscite questions. The results of the plebiscite are for Council's information and are non-binding.

The ballot will have two “yes” or “no” questions. The first question seeks the opinion of voters on whether to strengthen laws to restrict the public use of certain illegal drugs. The second question seeks the opinion of voters on whether the City should ask the Province to expand secure treatment and care facilities for people with severe substance use and mental health disorders.

The above represents a summary of the plebiscite questions on the ballot and is provided for information and convenience only. It is not a direct translation of the questions, and the official questions as printed on the ballots are the authoritative version.