

Biodiversity Count Sheet

Gibby's Field

Name:

Location:

Date:

Gibby's Field target species

This is a list of species commonly seen in Vancouver with ephemeral wetland habitat preferences. Place a check mark next to any species you see in or near the wetland. If you capture a photo, log your observation in iNaturalist too. You can also include any additional sightings of interesting birds, mammals, insects or plants in the table below.

Northern Flicker

Northwestern crow

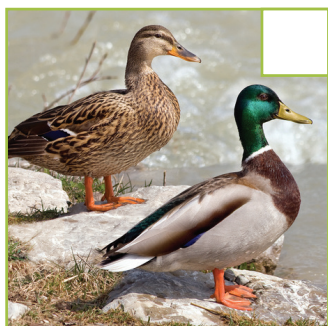

Song Sparrow

Great Blue Heron

Cedar Waxwing

Mallard

Marsh wren

American robin

Glaucous-winged Gull

Biodiversity Count Sheet

Gibby's Field

Anna's Hummingbird

Western bumblebee

Eight-spotted Skimmer

Blue-eyed Darner

Anise Swallowtail

Pacific Forktail

Little Brown Bat

Pacific Tree Frog

Additional Species Sighted

Species Name	Notes

Share what you saw with us! Send us a copy of your biodiversity inventory to raincity@vancouver.ca or add your results to iNaturalist

Biodiversity Count Sheet

Gibby's Field Bat Target Species

The planting plan at Gibby's Field was designed to attract a wide number of species, including bats. Here are a list of bat-friendly plants you can spot at Gibby's Field.

Oceanspray

Nootka Rose

Evergreen Huckleberry

Canadian Goldenrod

Marsh Cinquefoil

Yellow Pestemon

Highbush Blueberry

Oregon Grape

Orange Honeysuckle