Park Strategies

Views and Vistas

- Open spaces are oriented along three major view axes: down the length of the False Creek, at the creek basin and the city skyline.
- The design for the park preserves these views and opens others in a series of dramatic places and overlooks to view the mountains, soak up the sun and enjoy water and city views.
- In these large family-oriented park spaces, residents and visitors can stretch out a blanket for a picnic, throw a frisbee or immerse themselves in a dense grove of trees.

A Continuous Waterfront

- A continuous waterfront promenade enhances continuity along the shoreline, tying together the east basin of False Creek.
- The promenade undulates, lengthening the shoreline and connecting the major features of the park.
- Visitors, commuters, lunch goers, and residents can stroll, jog, meander, sit and gather along the promenade, making it a highly active and social space throughout the year.

Enhance Ecology

- The design aims to expand ecosystems of the creek, enhance natural systems, and help to mitigate impacts of sea-level rise.
- The park descends to the water in intertidal inlets, where cascades of steps and ramps provide access to gravel beaches that register the changing tide and host intertidal habitat.
- A diverse offering of planting types fill the park, giving each area a distinct quality, ranging from porous and open to dense and enclosed.
