Context

Places for People

Downtown is the heart of the city, and home to some of the most popular public spaces in Vancouver. It’s also an area that’s growing with more residents, businesses and visitors each year. This means increased demand on the existing public space network in the future. Since space and opportunities are limited in the Downtown core, we need to be creative and strategic in how we deliver public space.

Through Places for People | Downtown we will create a comprehensive strategy to coordinate and deliver Downtown public space over the next 30 years.

What this document is about:

Hearing You Clearly

In June 2017 the City of Vancouver’s Department of Planning, Urban Design and Sustainability launched Places for People: Downtown, a planning process to create a strategy that will shape the future of public space and public life in Downtown Vancouver over the next 30-years.

We connected with over 4,500 people through this process. Additionally, an online survey and asset mapping exercise were launched that received 1,925 responses. Participants provided feedback on the issues that need to be addressed for a successful strategy, as well as the ideas, opportunities and values that will help guide its delivery.

All of this engagement was summarized in our Phase One Engagement Results & Emerging Strategic Themes report. This was then sent back for public input through a Talk Vancouver survey. This report summarizes what we heard from that survey - making sure we are hearing you clearly. To see the draft emerging themes referenced in this report, check out our Phase 1: Engagement Results & Emerging Strategic Themes report on our website: vancouver.ca/placesforpeople

This feedback will be incorporated into the development of the downtown public space strategy.
