Dear Resident/ Business Owner:

RE: Parking changes on your street- 'No Stopping Anytime' signs

As part of the COVID-19 pandemic response, the City of Vancouver has started to implement Slow Streets to make it easier to maintain physical distancing while exercising and accessing destinations in your neighbourhood. Slow Streets provide local opportunities for walking, cycling and rolling and connections to parks and commercial areas.

Access:

Barriers and signs have been installed along the Slow Street routes to encourage people driving to go slow and only use the street for local access. There are no changes to emergency vehicle access and waste/recycling collection.

Parking:

On-street parking has generally been maintained on Slow Streets. On a few streets, we needed to make parking changes near intersections, by installing new "No Stopping Anytime" signs, to provide additional space for vehicles to turn safely around the barriers.

In a few weeks, we'll be asking the public for ideas and feedback on how we can continue to make these routes more comfortable for walking, cycling and rolling. In the meantime, if you have questions or comments about the Slow Streets initiative, please visit vancouver.ca/covid19, or contact our team at slowstreets@vancouver.ca.

Sincerely,

Transportation Design,
