

TEMPORARY MODULAR HOUSING

Supportive housing for homeless residents

Vancouver is in a housing crisis and over 2,000 people across the city of Vancouver are experiencing homelessness. Men, women, seniors and youth are suffering both physically and mentally. Creating safe, warm housing for homeless people in our community continues to be a top priority for the City of Vancouver.

In September 2017, the B.C. government committed $66 million towards the development of 600 new units of temporary modular housing in Vancouver. This funding will allow the City and the Province to address the immediate and urgent needs of homeless residents in Vancouver while more permanent housing is being planned and developed. Temporary modular homes will be located on vacant and underused sites across the city.

The lot at 688 Cambie Street is being considered as a site for temporary modular housing:

- The site is expected to have two temporary modular housing buildings. Each building would be three storeys and contain approximately 50 studio homes for single occupancy.
- All units would be self-contained dwellings with a private bathroom and kitchen.
- At least 10% of the homes would be wheelchair accessible.

BC Housing would select an experienced non-profit housing operator to manage the building and its operations, and provide support to the residents.

The City and its partners are committed to moving forward with this specific site location. We are seeking community feedback on the following aspects of the project:

- Building and site design elements, such as lighting, pathways, landscaping and parking
- Elements of the draft Operations Management Plan, such as staffing
- Local representation for the Community Advisory Committee
- Ideas for how to support and integrate the new residents into the neighbourhood

Community feedback on this housing proposal can be provided by emailing housing@vancouver.ca. Please note that all feedback will be reviewed and considered in the approval process; however, the City will not provide a reply to all submissions.

Vancouver Art Gallery

The proposed temporary modular housing project will not delay or impede the delivery of a new Vancouver Art Gallery. In 2013 City of Vancouver City Council approved a portion of this site, 688 Cambie, for a new Vancouver Art Gallery. The City and its partners acknowledge the importance the new gallery holds in providing innovative exhibitions and extensive public programs for Vancouver and the arts and cultural community.

TEMPORARY MODULAR HOUSING

The Process for Tenants

- Applications for temporary modular housing are processed through the BC Housing Supportive Housing Registry. To apply visit: bchousing.org.
- Tenants would pay rent.
- All tenants would have customized supports based on their needs, which may include: healthcare, social services and/or other tailored services. The services provided to tenants vary from building to building. Some services are provided by on-site staff, and some services are delivered by support agencies through outreach programs.
- Other programs may include life-skills training, employment preparation and access to educational opportunities.
- Tenants would be given opportunities for volunteer work, connections to community groups and opportunities for social events.

Managing Housing Safely and Responsibly

The City, BC Housing and the non-profit operator are committed to ensuring each building would be managed safely and responsibly, and integrate well into the existing neighbourhood.

The buildings would have an Operations Management Plan (OMP) that describes how the housing would be managed.

Tenants would be selected through a process that ensures tenants' needs are well matched to the levels of services provided in each building.

The housing operator would establish a Community Advisory Committee to ensure open and ongoing dialogue with the community once the buildings are open.

The temporary buildings would provide much-needed housing for approximately three to five years, while more permanent housing is built.

How you can learn more

- The City and its partners will hold a community information session near the site to listen to feedback – specific date and location details to come.
- A Community Liaison is available to respond to questions leading up to and during construction until residents move in.
- An experienced housing operator would establish a Community Advisory Committee to ensure open and ongoing dialogue with the community
